

Village & church events for September saw a dog handler approach a road junction in Lindfield with his puppy, who was positively wriggling with delight.

His tail was wagging and he was a picture of suppressed bounce! Every few paces the puppy looked up at his master to reassure itself of approval 'cos he knew he was walking to heel. As the man halted at the kerb the puppy entered with gusto into this practised routine. He sat and proudly looked for the expected sign of approval. Strangely, there was no response, only a patient waiting. The master had noticed the dog was sitting PARALLEL to the road and not facing it, as he was taught! The puzzled pup soon realised the mistake and turned to face the correct way. Praise and reassurance were given immediately, and the pair crossed Denmans Lane in perfect harmony!

This short scene enacted Jesus' own love for us, His so wayward children. How often we get the wrong end of the stick, and our Lord has to wait patiently for us to catch up with His timing for us. Happy walkies!!

The Bible

"The Arrival of the Son of Man will take place in times like Noah's. Before the great flood everyone was Carrying on as usual, having a good time right up to the day Noah boarded the ark. They knew nothing

- until the flood hit and swept everything away.

The Son of Man's Arrival will be like that: Two men will be working in the field – one will be taken, one left behind; two women will be grinding at the mill – one will be taken, one left behind. So stay awake, alert. You have no idea what day your Master will show up. But you do know this: You know that if a homeowner had known what time of night the burglar would arrive, he would have been there with his dogs to prevent the break–in. Be vigilant just like that. You have no idea when the Son of Man is going to show up."

New term – on Sundays too!

The holidays are soon over, school is back in and you are tired out (parent and child!). Take rest here a while then, and remind yourself of what is available for children at Lindfield URC on Sunday mornings.

Our 9.30am service is normally bustling with people of all ages. A short time into it. the children can leave to do their own thing, in groups of relevant ages. The chart on this page, shows what each group gets up to. If you don't already, why not join us one Sunday? Should you have any auestions. the Junior Church Coordinator. Clare Nibloe, will be pleased to hear from vou (01444 484683).

Creche Age: pre 2 ½ years Who: rota arranged by Janet Drayton

Parents may leave their babies and toddlers in the creche feeling confident that the experienced pair of volunteers will create a safe and happy play session for their child, whilst they enjoy the worship.

Ramblers Age: 2 ½ – end Reception Who: Emma, Trudy, Barbara & Serena.

We meet for a crampacked session of Bible stories, games and play. We usually make a lot of mess with glue, glitter and paints - resulting in a reminder of the morning to take home!

4 – September GoodNEWS

Hikers Age: Yr 1 – Yr 2 Who: Rita, Kath, Tim, Charlie & Marion

We have craft things to stick or make, we do colouring and sometimes have games. Most importantly we learn from the Bible through stories and memory verses. We also like to pray together. It's fun! Adventurers Age: Yr 3 – Yr 6 Who: Martin, Helen & Tina

Adventurers welcomes all. Our aim is to learn more about the life of Jesus and what life as a Christian is all about in a FUN and CARING environment. See you there! Carpe Diem Age: 11 – 14 Who: Suzy, Stuart, Mel & Bill Meetings usually start with a relevant, but rarely sensible, game. We then read a passage from the Youth Bible. Being a small group we have good discussions about the topic. We end with a prayer.

Fitting all the pieces together

On the second Sunday of every month, all the Junior Church groups get together for one large time of worship, specifically geared for them.

Featuring drama, loads of fun activities and music, courtesy of the Jigsaw band (comprising of really talented young musicians). Jigsaw takes the place of their regular group times, within the 9.30 service. It should be noted, however, that in October Jigsaw will be on the first Sunday (6th October), as there is a Brigades' Parade Service on the regular, second Sunday slot.

Childhood memories

Rob Parsons' book is not, as it may sound, a critique of his Sunday School teachers or a book of deep theological insights that are too profound for those who are at Sunday School (or Junior Church!).

Instead it is a number of reflections on thoughts and truths that were first introduced to him at Sunday School that have subsequently had a significant impact on his life.

Many of the chapter headings and ideas explored seem obvious on the surface: 'I am known completely and loved unconditionally' (by God). 'The greatest freedom is having nothing to prove' or 'Don't spend your life wishing that you had done more'. However, what Parsons is getting at is that often these are truths that are head and not heart knowledge. Of course, we know that they are true in our heads, but do we accept and know that they are true in our hearts?

All of the chapters are based on stories and ideas from Sunday School that have penetrated to his heart as a result of joyful, sad or traumatic experiences in his adult life. As he says himself, 'the reason that they are so clear is that life itself has enforced them'. Rob Parsons style is as straightforward and honest as he calls his reader to be in their Christian life and church family. The book is both refreshing and challenging and full of honest insights that take your breath away at times.

Different chapters would speak particularly to different individuals. I personally was hugely encouraged by 'Tomorrow belongs to the failures'. Here Parsons reflects on his experience of his wife's breakdown, and how God showed him that at the end of his resources were God's resources, which were not only infinite but those on which we need to rely if we are ever going to make a difference for God. He encourages the reader to see that real success is being prepared to fail just like Peter trying to walk on the water. God worked in and through Rob and Diane as they served in their weakness and kept on stepping out in faith for Him. Continued over...

I was also massively challenged by 'I was meant to party with my enemies', a chapter that challenges the reader about what God requires from His Church and His children. Parsons emphasises the imperative of real, honest, loving relationships within our church families and the danger of having a 'church world' (how we know it should be) and an 'inner world' (how it really is on the inside). He encourages us to demolish the walls between these two 'worlds' and party with our enemies or all those people that we find difficult. I felt that this chapter was a real insight into God's perspective on His Church.

The book is simultaneously a comfort and a challenge, it enables you to have a good look in the mirror and see not only all that you truly are but all that God has in mind for us and that is fantastically exciting! I would recommend it as a book that is a great encouragement for all those who are Sunday School teachers and who sometimes wonder what difference they actually make. It is also a call to the faith of a child for all of us in those times when we mistakenly equate a mature faith to a complicated one.

Last month's winner

Jessica won the summer colouring competition by entering her version of Noah's Ark. We hope that you and your family have had, or will have, a great time at Fishers Farm Park – the prize being a day ticket.

Sorry if you didn't win on this occasion. This month you can get the chance to liven up your pencil case with a selection of goodies – if you can work out the Bible verse on the Competition Quiz (page 15). Write it down and pop it in the GoodNEWS box before 12 noon on Sunday 15th September!

Smiling is infectious; you catch it like the 'flu, When someone smiled at me today, I started smiling too. I passed around the corner and someone saw my grin, When he smiled I realised I'd passed it onto him. I thought about that smile then I realised its worth. A single smile, just like mine, could travel round the earth. So, if you feel a smile begin, don't leave it undetected, Let's start an epidemic quick, and get the world infected! Everyone needs a SMILE!

Dialling up for Haiti mission

Evangelist Brian Harris is preparing for a mission tour to Haiti early next year - thanks, he savs, to the Holy Spirit and a mobile phone company. The Rev Dr Harris has received two previous invitations to missions in the country but finance has usually proved a deterrent. This time round. Any Mobile Phone Ltd offered to help fund all travel expenses relating to the trip, and offered Brian the job of part-time company chaplain and counsellor.

Concern over Police insignia change

Plans to drop the crown and cross from the Metropolitan Police insignia have prompted calls for an urgent debate.

The Met's personnel "diversity strategy" approved a new design for recruits who have strong religious objections to the old one.

But the Chairman of the Met's Police Federation savs anyone who refused to wear the old insignia probably lacked the tolerance to be a police officer.

Radio boost

A report by the joint Lords and Commons Committee, to challenge the 1990 Broadcasting Act. which currently prohibits religious organisations or leaders from holding a variety of broadcasting licences, was published in August.

The Evangelical Alliance welcomed the recommendation saving "it is a breath of fresh air". The Report also suggested that a national digital music station should not be discriminated against – enabling the creation of a national gospel station for the first time.

September 11 survivior marries

One of only five survivors pulled from the rubble after the World Trade Center attacks has married her long-time bovfriend. The ceremony was broadcast on US TV – with vows alluding to her ordeal, such as 'tomorrow is not promised to anyone'.

The 31-year old was trapped for 26 hours after the North Tower collapsed, crushing her legs, until a fireman eventually heard her screams. 'I don't have nightmares about it.' she said. 'I think I pray too much and just keep thanking God.'

HH town youth work progress

A Youth Cafe (to be called "Bytes") is due to open in The Broadway, Haywards Heath later this month. Jenni Addison, recently appointed detached youth worker in the area, will be based in the cafe office. All under the banner of 'Streetmate', the service is for young people in Haywards Heath, set up in partnership by NCH and Churches Together in Haywards Heath & District.

Managing in faith

t was at a late night forum at Spring Harvest this year that I first heard about the Eco–Congregation programme.

I was excited to hear of some of the projects that churches had got involved in within their local communities. Some had planted trees and flowers in a community garden, others had begun to promote fair trade by changing the brand of teas and coffees that they normally used. Another church had started a 'Green Box' scheme for recycling anything from stamps to mobile phones.

Eco-Congregation, the churches environmental programme, was developed from a partnership between Churches Together in Britain and Ireland and ENCAMS (formerly Going for Green & Tidy Britain Group). It aims to encourage churches and members to show their care for God's creation in spiritual and practical ways, helping them work with their local communities. The programme has three core components: a set of resource modules, a process to provide support for churches by linking them to appropriate local environmental groups, including within their local authority and an award scheme to recognise creditable environmental work of churches. The programme was developed through a pilot study involving 22 churches from eight denominations and a variety of contexts and sizes from across the United Kingdom. The modules cover a range of areas from resources for worship and Bible study material to the managing of financial, catering and purchasing matters. The modules focus on four main areas: Grounding in Faith. Growing in Faith, Managing in Faith and Living in Faith. Churches are encouraged to choose the modules that are most relevant to them. undertaking a project/activity in areas covered by at least three of the modules in order to gain an award. Projects need to include one with a strong spiritual dimension, one with a strong practical dimension and at least one activity that has had a positive impact on, or involved. their local community.

Rev Justin Dunne, Wakefield Baptist Church, reflects on his

The Eco-Congregation Blessing (inspired by Matthew 7 v 24)

The Eco-Congregation built their Church upon a rock and:

Checked that their premises and life reflected their missionary priorities Worshipped the God of creation through word and deed Conducted Bible studies to explore environmental insights from God's word Considered green theological perspectives in sermons and decisions Enthused their children with wonder for God's creation Encouraged their young people to take environmental issues seriously Challenged their members to green their personal lifestyles Installed low-energy light bulbs and recycled more than old sermons Bought fairly traded goods to give their coffee mornings a good aroma Planted their patch with wildflowers in praise of God Opened their doors to let the community in and the green Good News out Acted locally, to care for people and the environment globally

And celebrated together, for they lived life in fullness with Christ experience of the Eco–Congregation programme: "Our Church valued the Eco– lued the Eco– Congregation Programme because it helped us to take care of God's creation through a variety of practical initiatives including recycling, careful use of energy, cleaning ponds and other conservation projects.

Eco–Congregation also gave a new lease of life to Church members who have found how their environmental concerns, interests and skills can be used to serve God. It has been faith building for them and faith challenging to those outside the church who see us doing something practical to benefit the whole community."

If anyone also shares an interest in all things 'green' then let me know – perhaps as individuals or a whole church we can make a difference in our local community. Emma Tingley

Helpers needed

I need a team of helpers to decorate our church for Harvest Festival on Saturday 28th September at 9.30am. People who are creative, as well as people that can arrange flowers. Please let me know if you can help. Flowers will need to be purchased, so donations would be appreciated. Betty Billins

What about our Sunday Services* then?

Coffee is normally served between the morning services and after the evening one.

The 9.30am service is an opportunity for all age groups to join in a relaxed informal time. There is a crèche, and after about 20 minutes children and young people up to age 14 go out to their own groups on most Sundays.

The 11.00am service is usually more set and formal.

At 6.30pm it is sometimes a celebration, sometimes a quieter ministry time and sometimes an open communion service or something quite different!

Personal prayer is available after every service. Prayer requests and brief statements of praise for answered prayer can be put in the red book on the concourse table. We can also offer personal prayer ministry at home or in hospital.

We do not take up an offering during the services, but all those wishing to give are invited to place a gift in one of the bowls at the doors before or after the service. Thank you.

Cassette recordings of services can be borrowed free from the church.

Harvest Appeal

As in past years we are devoting our giving this month, including gifts from our Harvest Thanksgiving Weekend, to a mission agency offering support to those in desperate need. This year we will be channeling our gifts through 'WorldShare' for the relief of those in famine stricken Malawi.

WorldShare works in partnership with indigenous, self–governing ministries throughout the world – especially in Africa, Asia, Latin America and Eastern Europe – enabling them to fulfill their part in the Great Commission through evangelism, Bible teaching and practical assistance.

Founded in 1943, WorldShare today serves as a link in fellowship, prayer and financial support to partner ministries in over 50 countries.

There is more information on the mission display. Please use the special envelopes for your gifts and place in the offertory bowls at any Sunday service throughout the month. If appropriate please sign a Gift Aid slip.

Sad Facts

- Up to thirteen million people across southern Africa are facing starvation.
- Many of the most vulnerable are mothers and their babies, and children under five.
- The situation is made worse by the devastation of HIV / AIDS

WorldShare is now launching an emergency Southern Africa Famine Appeal.

Funds raised will enable our local Christian partners to:

- supply food, medical aid, clothing and shelter to people facing starvation in Malawi and northern Mozambique;
- implement agriculture projects and other forms of sustainable development;
- bring a Christian ministry of comfort, help and hope to those in need.

'Hope for Africa' is a WorldShare partner. Rarely can a name have been so apt! Please, help us to help our African partners, as they seek to save famine-ravaged lives in Malawi.

Hope for Africa?

WorldShare partner, Hope for Africa, is poised to help save many lives in Malawi, from where ministry director Rev Hendrick Mahlangu reports...

"In the Shire Vallev region we found the situation to be verv serious. People are eating everything they come across just to survive. Coping mechanisms for affected families include feeding on tree leaves. The greatest impact is on children. orphans, women, the aged and people with disabilities. Hospital admissions due to malnutrition. especially children under five. have reached alarming proportions. Cholera cases have increased as families no longer observe hygiene practices in their feeding habits. Crop forecasts reveal a deficit for this region alone of 39.085 metric tonnes of maize. Of 100.586 farming families, 74,720 are without food."

"The need is so vast. Hope for Africa is partnering with churches in this region to supply food, and to develop food security and an agricultural project... that will bring sustainable development."

"As always, our principle is not just to supply food and stop there", concludes Rev. Mahlangu. "We also want to open doors for sharing God's love in this region."

Notes from District Council:

"Sounds like another boring bit of ecclesiastical bureaucracy! Well, it met, about 40 representative ministers & elders, at Lindfield URC on June 21st. The main job of a DC is sharing and caring between the churches. We are a family - we look after each other."

'Pastoral Committee' reports: The Lindfield one was very encouraging. We are now probably the strongest church in the District and it is felt we have much in the way of experience and skill to share with others less fortunate.

Welcome/induction of three Ministers (Seaford/Eastbourne, Haywards Heath (shared with Burgess Hill), Methodist at Lewes).

The call of a minister for the Hastings Group was agreed and the two churches in Bexhill were authorised to seek a minister.

A proposal to suspend the District Executive (good – one Committee less to attend!)

Report on an outreach programme in Sussex in May by a group of Southern Baptists from the USA.

A plug for a series of three "Mission Workshops" in the District in the autumn.

Nikki tells all

Many will know Nikki Taylor, who works as a missionary for Mercy Ships in Freetown, Sierra Leone. As a church we have been supporting her and enjoy hearing from her when she is back in the UK.

Nicola has kindly agreed to put a couple of day-to-day happenings down on paper for us each month! The column (page 23) will give us a regular glimmer of what it is like for Nikki, out on the mission field.

You can email her direct and find out more on taylorn@mercyships.org.

Six months on...

So, chosen by God for this new life of love, dress in the wardrobe God picked out for you: compassion, kindness, humility, quiet strength, discipline. Be even-tempered, content with second place, quick to forgive an offence. Forgive as quickly and completely as the Master forgave you. And regardless of what else you put on, wear love. It's your basic, all-purpose garment. Never be without it.

(Colossians 3v12–14 The Message)

This vivid new translation makes doubly clear what is surely the overwhelming message of the New Testament – that God's amazing love has been poured out on us, forgiven sinners, and is to be shared one with another just as God shared it with us. Ungrudgingly, unreservedly, without limit.

I have received much of this love from many of you, and I was privileged to become an official part of it when early this year you appointed me as Pastoral Assistant. "I'll write an account of my first six months in the job" I said cheerfully to Ron Goodenough. Then I discovered how difficult this is – but here goes!!

Well, in the first place I have enjoyed my job. I've been impressed by the high level of practical care shown by Fo Tingley and her Pastoral Group, as well as by many others who have no official title. I've got to know more members than I would otherwise have done in six months, and you have blessed me.

I've learned from observing the courage, patience and faith of many facing illness, operation or death, and have admired the devotion of those caring for needy family members. I've received much from the cheerful wisdom of our senior citizens, and I've been reminded again that behind all the human caring, it is our Lord himself who is the Good Shepherd.

What are my aims for the future?

- To continue to learn from the Good Shepherd
- 2) To be available to any who are anxious, afraid or lonely, or who just need to talk to someone to any who have lost the way and would like help to return to a closer walk with God.

22 – September GoodNEWS

to listen to those who have been hurt – by life, by other people or by the church.

3) To help any of you who would like to be a greater part of the network of love and care that brings healing and peace. It's not easy, and we all feel so inadequate, yet God is wanting to work through inadequate and fallible people – it's the way he does it! I can share with you my mistakes and how God is helping me, and we can learn together.

I am aware that although over the past six months I have visited many of you, either at home or in hospital, there are still many I hardly know. I seldom refuse the offer of a cup of tea and a chat, so if you feel I have overlooked you, just give me a ring!!

A reminder – please don't forget to pray for me. Often the job makes greater demands than my spiritual resources can cope with, and I depend on God baling me out in answer to your prayers!

And a last word – if I have been less than sensitive to you, if I haven't listened enough, or if I've said the wrong thing, I'm sorry. Remember, I'm learning too.

Mike Gardiner Pastoral Assistant, LURC

"It was a little strange to be back at 'home'. Very hot and humid now the rainy season has set in. I have to remember to do all those small things that were habits before I went away and I so guickly lost while living in a world where electricity and water function nearly all the time. I left the shower running while I went to get my towel forgetting that water is a precious commodity and I shouldn't waste it. We usually shower to get wet, then soap and then shower again to get clean. While showering I had an encounter with a hazard of the season called 'Champion' locally. These acid bugs inflict a nasty burn. which spreads when squashed against your skin. Toothpaste is about the only thing that stops it spreading, so now I smell all minty and feel a bit sticky!"

"The country [Sierra Leone] does indeed seem to be coming together a little after the declaration of the end of the war in January this year and the first democratic elections since, errm, well a long time ago. The British armed forces have left, taking BFBS (British Forces Broadcasting Service) with them. Shame, no more 'Friends' or 'A Touch of Frost'. However this does speak of the confidence that people have in the peace here."

Autumn Pilgrimage Saturday 5th October 2002

The Autumn Pilgrimage this year will consist of two short walks, both beginning and ending at Hassocks URC. The morning walk is about four miles and the afternoon walk about two miles. It will be possible to do either the morning or the afternoon walk or both. We hope this will encourage those to come who have not felt able to walk our usual six or eight miles.

There will be a little more street walking than is usual on our pilgrimages but we hope you will find something of God's glory both in the town and in the fields we walk across.

Four churches will be visited, Hassocks URC, the church of St Francis of Assisi in Hassocks, St Edward R C church in Keymer and the church of St John–the–Baptist in Clayton. Keymer church is a fairly modern building in contrast to the Clayton church which is 1000 years old. This church has some very interesting wall paintings which may date from 1080 AD.

We shall meet at Hassocks URC probably at 9.45 am, be back to eat our packed lunch around 1.00 pm and end the day with a short birthday celebration tea for the National United Reformed Church which will be thirty years old on that day. We expect to leave the church about 5.00 pm.

We look forward to walking with old and new friends for what we hope will be another great pilgrimage. We would, as always, value your prayers for the day.

For further information please speak to either Barbara Shepherd (483167) or Priscilla Walden (458707).

At camp – US-style!

Katy Lewis, as part of her 'gap' year, went to work Stateside at the US Camp Allergheny, Pennsylvania. She took with her such skills as sailing and lifesaving, but it seems she will have learnt some new ones by the time she returns home for University. This is her story...

t doesn't seem like two months have passed already, and by the time you read this there will be only one camp session left.

We've had about six sessions so far, each a week long with 180–270 kids per session. The first week was for Salvation Army kids who go to what seems to be the Army version of Boys'/Girls' Brigade – they were all good and well-behaved, and actually listened when asked to be quiet. which lulled me into a false sense of security regarding typical camper behaviour! I was rudely awoken from my misconceptions the following week, when we were restraining kids left, right and centre (to stop them fighting/running away/hurting themselves) and the female program staff (me included) were on constant alert at night because of the riots breaking out in the girls' cabins. Not what I was expecting!

My role at camp is a mismash of several different things - primarily I'm boating supervisor and a lifeguard, but I've also been seen teaching puppets, basketball (which I cannot play to save my life) and dressing up as the Queen... I think the job highlights were checking for lice and athletes foot the very first day (all kids are checked on opening day – there's a whole building for dealing with the lice cases they're that common) and being removed from that duty for the rest of the summer because I missed loads of 'lice–kids' and ruined the whole days schedule as they all had to be rechecked. Whoops!

Camp food is a story in itself – I'm not sure whether it's typical American nutrition or not, but we eat the strangest things and weirdest combinations (at one point we had the same food for lunch, dinner, and lunch the next day). My all-time favourite must be when we came into the staff dining room after a long day of dealing with difficult kids to find a table full of butter-coated chicken wings, and a huge vat of sweetcorn. Nothing else. And only forks to eat it with - I'm not sure that the concept of knives is understood in America. They also have no idea what real tea is like or how it should be drunk - the 80 tea bags mum sent me have been a lifesaver (as well as making me very popular with the other British staff!) Chocolate is also disappointingly bland here not the real deal, but I do like the amount of choice you get at stores like Walmart for anything. I'd never seen an entire supermarket aisle devoted to pickled gherkins before -America is the land of choice!

I've experienced several American 'firsts' over the past weeks: my first trip to Walmart (got lost), first 'twinkie' (spongev cake thing – very nice), first drive–in movie (started raining so we sat in the car with the wipers on, only to drain the battery and require iump-starting the stupid thing at 1.30am in the middle of a storm). and a few weeks ago, my first baseball game. Baseball. Possibly the most boring game to watch on the face of the planet – we actually didn't even realise they'd started until about the 3rd innings when someone scored a home run and fireworks were let off!

In between each camping session we have either a one- or two-night break, so I've been able to see a fair bit of the surroundings, including two trips to Ohio. A few memorable staff break moments include cramming 12 of us into a 2 bed motel room whilst avoiding being seen by security guards, and plaving "who's line is it anyway?" at 1 am in the middle of the street. For my next (and final) staff break I'm planning a trip to a friend's house, who has his own private lake and iet-ski sounds like fun!

Anyway, I'd better draw to a close – it's past midnight and 'lights out', so I don't want to get into trouble! To be honest, the only reason I've managed to find time to write this letter is because I was given a curfew – have to be in our rooms at 9.45pm – for the past 2 nights because two others and myself were caught creeping around after midnight last week – a punishable offence here at camp!

I'm due back on 3rd September, but there may be a trip to Germany in the pipeline to see a certain young Canadian!

A big thank you to all who have written – it has been great to hear from home. I'll see you in a few weeks!

Your American representative, Katy xxx

In order to provide flexibility of choice, an Introductory Supper, comprising a two–course meal, will be served at The Tiger on Tuesday 17th September and also at this church on Thursday 19th September. The evenings are designed for anyone interested enough just to come along to find out more about the Christian faith and will give people the opportunity to decide on which evening of the week they would like to attend the course.

The format of the Introductory Supper at this church will be as follows;

- 7.30pm Arrival
- 7.45pm Meal
- 8.45pm "Christianity Untrue, Boring, Irrelevant?" (video)
- 9.45pm Close

The Alpha Course itself will then run for a further 11 weeks on Thursday evenings and will revolve around a number of videos, comprising a series of talks (including the one referred to above) given by the Rev Nicky Gumbel, the curate of Holy Trinity Church, Brompton. After each presentation there will be time for everyone to discuss any issues or questions that arise from the talk giving opportunity to get to know each other and learn together.

The venue for each of the weekly sessions will be the lounge at the church and the intention will be to serve a light meal at 7.30pm prior to each video presentation.

Coming to the supper in no way commits you to attend the course! Equally if you cannot come to the supper but would like to know the course arrangements with a view to coming along to see what it is like, please have a word with either Barry Piper (456823) or Bob Biersteker (440835)

Temple of Christianity

⁴⁴ When I found this wonderful Temple of Christianity, with the Holy Spirit as my guide, I entered the portico of Genesis, walked down the Old Testament art galleries where the pictures of Noah, Abraham, Isaac, Jacob, Joseph, Moses and Daniel hang on the wall.

I passed into the Music Room of the Psalms where the Spirit of God swept across the keyboard of nature, until it seemed that every reed and pipe in God's great organ responded to the tuneful harp of David, the sweet singer of Israel.

I entered the Chamber of Ecclesiastes, where the voice of the preacher was heard, and into the Conservatory of Sharon and where the Lily of the Valley's sweet scented spices filled and perfumed my life.

I entered the business office of Proverbs and then into the Observatory of the Prophets, where I saw telescopes of various sizes pointed to far off events, but all were concentrated upon the bright and morning star, which was to rise above the moon-lit hills of Judea for our salvation.

I entered into the Audience room of the King of kings and caught a vision of His glory from the standpoint of Matthew, Mark, Luke and John. I passed into the Acts of the Apostles where the Holy Spirit was doing His work in the formation of the infant Church.

Then I stepped into the Correspondence Room where Peter, Paul, James and John penned their epistles ...

I stepped into the Throne Room of Revelation where towered the glistening peaks and got a vision of the King of kings upon His throne of glory with the healing of the nations in His hand.

Then I cried out, 'All hail the power of Jesus' name! Let Angels prostrate fall! Bring forth the Royal Diadem and crown Him Lord of all!'

What are you doing here?

During the past two or three years many more people have become interested in their ancestry.

There seems to be a wish that they have a positive identity and are 'someone' who matters. They should know that we all matter to God! When details of the 1901 census were made available to the public there were so many requests for information that the service was quickly withdrawn.

Are people beginning to ask whether there is more to life than greater material possesions and enjoyment of leisure turned only to pleasure? The world has become a global village and our TV screens show ever more of the disparity of the quality of life between what are known as the nations of the West and the Third World. There is. indeed, a good public response to appeals such as 'Children in Need' and to help in sudden dire emergencies. But the situation in many overseas countries regarding poverty, starvation and enmity seems to worsen. Since the events of September 11th and subsequently, people are confused. Life itself is now more uncertain has it really any purpose?

A promising feature is that many young people now take opportunities to travel abroad to see for themselves. Some, indeed, spend a few months of a 'gap year' or otherwise to render help in Christian groups working in poor areas of needy countries or in helping to take the Gospel in new ways. Will they be able and willing to make use of their experiences to influence Western governments to take more action?

As we grow older we should become increasingly sure of God's purpose in life for each of us as individuals. That purpose may change through the years in the challenging circumstances of one's life. No one needed to be asked the question above more than God's great prophet Elijah. He was very depressed after success seemed to turn to abject failure. As the hymn reminds us. after the earthquake, wind and fire came the still small voice that put God's question – "What are you doing Elijah?"

What are you doing here? Herbert Fisher

"Since September 11th, people are confused. Life itself is now more uncertain – has it really any purpose?"

30 – September GoodNEWS

United we rhyme

Many of you will remember our church weekend away, last November. Over one hundred of us stayed at Ashburnham House, near Battle.

The focus: to 'UNITE' as a church family, especially in preparation for Norman Smith's imminent retirement. Well, much time has since passed, and in a new series GoodNEWS takes you back to reflect on what we learnt, both as a church and personally from UNITE2001.

The Bard of Ashburnham was a competition we ran during the weekend, to allow us to share our feelings creatively. One such example is printed below. Please use this series as a prompt to your thoughts about UNITE2001, and maybe share your aspirations for us, as a church, for the future. All contributions to the normal address, please.

We unite at Ashburnham 2001 Excited this weekend at last has begun Not sure what we'll learn, or how we will grow, Or what we'll perform at the "Fun Time" show And now that the end of the weekend is near, We reflect on God's blessings throughout our time here The 'blessing' of the youthful post-midnight joke, The shock of being Jessie Green when I awoke! And leadership skills were put to the test, In free time would young Mr Walters know best? "We'll be back before dark" as we set off through the woods, Jo Dawn's and my joy we were back before food Then Janet & Fo's song, it brought down the house, Whilst Hilary made us cry over his mouse Cinderella at Fun Time won't soon be forgotten Nor guessing "Banana" from Alex Hall's bottom! And now for the challenge as we go from this place, Will we grasp the commission, will we love by God's grace Will your warm fluffy feelings only last while you're here? Or will we take up the challenge, for God's kingdom is near.
